right are Mel Wilkes, Russ Peterson, John Gustin, Gary Miles and Roy Thacker. Big Cats go into weekend fairs listed 19th in national basketball standing.

Cats Making Hay While Sun Shines; Need Farmer Win to Keep in Race

by Alf Pratte
Daily Universe Sports Writer

It's usually a good night for basketball in Logan anytime of the week. But, when Brigham Young University Cougars hit Cache Valley to play the Aggies there's double reason the George Nelson Fieldhouse should be packed to the rafters.

The two rivals, who always manage to give fans their money's worth, and a wee bit more, will tie off tonight in the first of two regular Skyline Conference battles in a home-and-home series. Aggies will return to

Beehive State Feature
It will be the 17th meeting between the two "counties," featuring coaches Stan Watts of the Cougars and Cec Baker of the Ags. BYU has taken nine wins, even though the Cats dropped a 76-75 decision to the Logansites last season on the Farmer's home floor. The Cougars came back in the second game, 83-76.

The game will be broadcast by KSL, with pregame comments starting at 7:45 p.m. The Wattsmen, with a 3-1 record as opposed to the Ags 1958 0-4 mark, could take their first win in a Logan fair since 1953.

In height, Cats have tall talent in the 6-5 forward "John" Nicoll and Gustin, as well as rebounding Roy Thacker at 6-4.

Isen Tallest Farmer
Center Bob Ipsen, with a 14 game 14.8 average is highest on the Aggie totem pole at 6-5. Ipsen is a transfer from BYU to Utah State. Hal Theus and Jay Bates will be the starting Ag forwards. At guard spot will be captain Frank Polack and Sam Haggerty, replacing injured Ralph Cullimore.

Coch Watts will probably start Russ Peterson and Mel Wilkes at guard.

Saturday, the Cougars will host Montana State at Provo.

Student Heads Service Groups

Senior Jay Andrus, Provo, has been appointed president of the Service Unit Group of the Inter-Organization Council, announced Phil Koldewyn, IOC president, Wednesday.

Andrus fills the position vacated by Barrie McKay, and will be assisted by Ken Taylor, junior from Lewisburg, W. Va., and Dianne Steckler, senior, Bern, Ida.

President Eyes Weight

Like Ito, Pres Wilkinson watches his weight too. Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of Brigham Young University experienced a heart attack October 5, 1959.

Since that time, he has found it necessary to curb his intake of food. Doctors said he would need to watch his weight in order to keep in good health.

DR. WILKINSON said, "Most Americans over-eat and I think I did." Now that he is back to his regular duties at BYU, Dr. Wilkinson still eats regularly and is not on a strict diet.

He merely cuts down or eliminates his intake of fried and other fatty foods. This is a good rule for everyone to follow, he added. Dr. Wilkinson encounters problems that most weight-cutters do not run into. He attends up to three or four banquets a week. He says he eats what is given him but he does not exceed his normal portions.

He still enjoys a variety of food, and he adds that his appetite is still in prime condition. "It's the kind and quality of food that matters," emphasizes Dr. Wilkinson.

TV Admen Try Subtle

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) A Hollywood television station announced it plans to bombard the subconscious minds of its listeners with "subliminal preception," a system in which messages will be flashed on home TV screens quicker than the eye can see.

Low Arnold, vice president and general manager of KTLA, said the system will be inaugurated within four weeks but the audience will be advised in advance when a message is about to be transmitted with the subconscious as its target. He explained:

"We will not use commercial messages at first. Channel 5 will present subliminal communication as a public service, presenting slogans such as 'drive safely,' 'give blood,' and 'give to the March of Dimes.'"

Arnold said KTLA was the first station in the nation to use subliminal preception added:

"I have not heard of any bar to this type of casting."

"The National Association Broadcasters encourages television stations to participate in efforts to further the TV."

A REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

I'm Disgusted

says Ben F. Rankling, well-known educator and frannister belt repairman. Mr. Rankling was referring to the 1958 Enll, 21-page yearbook of Smedge University.

"I'm rushing right over to buy a real yearbook, the 7 pound 1958 Banyan!" Just think — 40 pages — 8 in full compatible color — packed full of events and people on campus in a way that makes it a treasure-trove of memories in future years. It's got coach's eye views of sports events, chaperone's eye views of campus activities, doting parents' eye views of all the students, and even some retouched photos of the dread faculty. The 1958 Banyan, best in coverage, best in lay-out, best in yearbooks. Still only $6.50, or $3.50 down. 1958 Banyan — BYU's family album.

Former Student Receives Merit Magazine

Former Brigham Young University student, Barbara Roman, received national recognition recently by being among ten leading American women to receive merit awards from Madeline Magazine.

Barbara Roman earned the title's poetry award for her ship of the newspaper "Poetry Broadside."

After her graduation from the University of New York, she went to launch a poetry magazine. Marking time while waiting up money and materials, she assisted at New York University and gained experience working for little magazines.

1957 she published the first issue of "Poetry Broadside," a first newspaper of its kind in America.

OTED in publishing poems and poems, "Broadside," a circulation of almost 100,000. It has also been called a literary critic to have called it "a triumph of presentation . . . an excellent, long-needed journal."

He at BYU, Miss Romney for the Wye Magazine, among others named in the awards by Madeline's list were: Althea Gibson, Glenda MacKenzie, tele- Carol Lawrence, theatre; Dr. Charlotte Friend, cancerous.

BANYAN BUYER—All wrapped up in Banyan sales talk are Glenda Snow (c.) and Geraldine Bingham. Recipient of the persuasive pulchritude is Webb Crockett, ASBYU proxy who seems pleased enough to want to buy two books.

Banyan Sales to Cease When Chimes Toll '12'

At the stroke of midnight Friday haggard Banyan salesmen will snap shut their receipt books and close the cash drawer, ending Brigham Young University yearbook sales for 1958.

Jay Leach, business manager, says no orders will be taken after this date.

TOTAL PRICE of the Banyan is $6.50 but $3.50 will place an order. Salesmen are stationed in lobbies of the main buildings, the Banyan office and at various much-travelled points on campus.

In emphasizing the yearbook's value, Banyan staffers have compared it with other schools' annuals, pointing out that it is less expensive than books of many other universities and only a little more costly than some high school annuals.

Banyan promoters hope to sell 6000 books this year.

In 1900, Brigham Young Academy sponsored a South American expedition to engage in Book of Mormon archaeological study, and to collect botanical, zoological, geological and archaeological specimens from Central and South America.

Cats, Kits 'Blast Off'

by Jack Batchler
Daily Universe Sports Writer
Utah State University plays host to a visiting band of Cougars tonight with the hopes that they can hand Stan Watts "high flying feline" a blow to give the Farmers company on the bottom side of the totem pole.

Tonight's dual is highly reminiscent of last year's when a determined Aggie quint temporarily stopped the Pumas in their headlong flight to glory by stealing a 76-75 rough and tumble contest at Logan.

Besides a similar setting to last year, Utah State has not lost to a visiting Cat squad in five years.

While Texas 6-3 forward, who plays so actively last year's Farmer crew will be back in his usual role of "Backboard Sweeper," and carries most of the Aggie hopes on his shoulders.

Ipsen-Thacker Duel
Center Bob Ipsen, 6-5 junior, at least is a height match for Roy Thacker, and most fans seem to think that there will be quite a dual between the improving Cat center, and his Aggie counterpart.

Rates who is a starting Farmer forward, was not in the first five last year. However, his improved form has prompted coach Cec Baker to start him this year.

Guard and season's captain, Frank Polack, 5-11 senior, is the Aggie floor general, and is averaging 8.0 points per game.

Polack according to reports will be missing his regular floor companion, Ralph Cullimore, who suffered an ankle injury in the Montana-USU tilt, forcing coach Baker to reach to the bench for Sam Haggerty.

Haggerty was one of the most active "bench" men last season.

Couch Stan Watts has the height advantage over Baker's "pocket-sized" squad, with Roy Thacker, John Gustin and John Nicol, all reaching close to the Farmer's tallest, 6-5 Bob Ipsen. Coupled with this, comes the fact that the Wattsman have the highest scoring average in the conference and are improving weekly in rebounding.

Utah State Advantage
Utah State, although they have the traditional home floor advantage, will certainly have their hands full if they intend to keep the Cougars "within range." From the appearances of last week's game at Missoula, coach Baker's quint will have to be a lot sharper offensively in this tilt.

Other games around the circuit this weekend sets New Mexico at Denver, Wyoming at Colorado State, and Utah at Hawaii University.

Kittens Meet Ramblers
Kittens will play Utah State's Ramblers in a preliminary to the Friday Cougar-Farmer clash. Coach Bob Bunker's charges square off with the oft-beaten Ramblers at 6 p.m.

Ramblers will be worried about Gatos Dave Eastis, Bob Skousen, Ken Hunt, Bruce Hill and Gary Earnest.
